

The Agoraphobe's Honest Resume

Home,
The Only Place On Earth I ever Want To Be
+01 dont-call-me
no_reply@fullinbox.com

PROFILE

Hi there! I'm just a vibrant, fun, fresh and caring 18 year old who doesn't leave the house. I have an anxiety disorder which makes me irrationally uncomfortable to be outside or around other people; I avoid engaging on social media and I isolate myself as much as possible. My short term goals are to go grocery shopping and to take a walk in the park. My long term goals include traveling by myself, having friends and getting a job.

EXPERIENCE

Researching Random Facts, Wikipedia; In Bed 2015 - Present

I've developed my research skills by randomly clicking on words on Wikipedia and learning obscure facts about a wide range of topics. For instance, did you know that the expression "rule of thumb" originates from an English law in 1782 which permitted a man to beat his wife with anything less wide than his thumb?

Feeling Sorry for Myself, Pathetic; In the Shower 2017 - Present

I value expressing concern and airing out grievances as a crucial aspect of my day-to-day life. That's why I have become committed to sobbing in the shower in self pity.

Producer, Podcast; School of My Dreams Present

My friends asked me to produce their podcast which is a part of the university's student association. I love the work, the people and the topics. I work on it when I can, but my crippling anxiety takes over and I never accomplish everything I set out to do.

Having a Social Life, Nostalgia; With People who Love Me Its been too long

I use to be in a stricter environment where it was easier to spend time with people. Now that I'm free to make my own decisions, I chose to move on from infantile projects like "hanging out" with others. I manage my time more efficiently by focusing on never having to ask anyone for help.

EDUCATION

School of My Dreams, I Don't Deserves to be Here — Who Cares, I'll never Graduate

SKILLS

I'm friendly and want to please others. I am kind and though I am not very patient, I give good advice. I can very effectively fake a smile and lie semi-convincingly.